When Friends of Historic Riverview Cemetery assumed control of the cemetery on January 30, 2009, we set a number of goals. Among them was the desire to identify and document all of the veterans interred at Riverview – a daunting task, even under the best of circumstances.

Using a list provided by VFW Post 2907 as our base line, we began by comparing the names on their list with the cemetery's burial database. This list, and accompanying hand-drawn maps, were used by the VFW Post members and local Cub Scouts to place an American flag on each veteran's grave for Memorial Day. We continue that practice to this date.

in peacetime, but have participated in the Civil War, the Indian Wars, the Spanish-American War, World Wars I and II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War. And some of our veterans participated in more than one of those conflicts. One veteran in particular, LTC George I. Sylvester, participated in World War II, Korea, and Vietnam.

A complete list of the veterans interred at Riverview is available on our website: www.riverviewcem.com. Memorial pages for each of these veterans were also created on Find A Grave: www.findagrave.com. Our continuing goal is to obtain a copy of the death certificate of each of these veterans, as well as a copy of either their death notice or obituary. Death notices or obituaries are imbedded in the veteran's Find A Grave memorial page.

One of the many challenges encountered during the identification process is that many of our veterans' graves are not marked with any type of memorial marker. We were in the process of ordering government-furnished markers for the graves of Civil War veterans, which required documenting each veteran's military service and sending a request to the Office of Veterans Affairs. We received and installed grave markers for eleven Civil War veterans. But, in 2014 the government changed the process. At present, only a family member (next of kin) can request a grave marker. With the help of some distant family members, we were able to order, receive and install a few more.

Although we have made some great inroads, we still have a long way to go. We know there are many more veterans buried at Riverview that still need to be recognized. Through our continued research, and with the help of families and friends, we are confident that we will ultimately achieve our goal of recognizing all veterans whose final resting place is historic Riverview Cemetery.

Reading the stones: Grave markers that illustrate the challenges faced while trying to locate and document all of the veterans interred in Riverview Cemetery—a task that required hundreds of hours.

To ensure that we were as thorough as possible in our quest to identify ALL of the veterans buried at Riverview, it was necessary to examine every grave marker in the cemetery. While government-furnished markers, both upright and flat, are relatively easy to identify and document, we had to examine every non-government marker as well because military service information is often engraved there. A real challenge, especially with many of the older marble grave markers, was that they had sunken deep into the ground or were no longer legible. This process involved many walkthroughs of the entire cemetery.

Other sources of information came from family members notifying us that one or more of their relatives were not included in our database. Death certificates, obituaries and newspaper articles were researched. Dr. Lee Anderson's book, Riverview Cemetery: Reading the Stones, A collection of Memories from the First State also provided valuable information.

Our efforts thus far have been fruitful: the number of veterans identified total 948 – a significant increase from the original VFW list of 554. These men and women have not only served ABCares returned to Riverview Cemetery and joined FHRC volunteers for our Saturday project in October. They raised sunken veteran markers and cleared debris from the Todd's Lane fence.

Bank of America Delaware Volunteers (Military Support Assistance Group) donated a Friday afternoon in October. They raised sunken veteran markers on the Northwest side of the cemetery and cleared debris from the fence along 31st street.

Both groups combined raised 19 military markers. Thank you to ABCares and Bank of America Delaware Volunteers for your service to those who served our country!
